DAILY PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.

MONDAY AFTERNOON, DEC. 30, 1833.

HAZARD'S PENNSYLVANIA REGISTER.—We have frequently called the attention of our readers to this truly valuable publication, and wish, once more, to repeat our call. It is published in Philadelphia, in weekly numbers of 16 pages, and is devoted, mainly, to historical, statistical, and other information, in relation to our own state. It may be had either weekly, as it is published, in numbers, or semi annually, in volumes. It is a a convenient book of reference, and a repository of useful information which is continually growing more valuable as it grows older. The subscription price is moderate, and every Pennsylvanian, of intelligence, who can afford it, should have a copy in his house.

Application was made, last winter, to the legislature, for encouragement, and we regretted that it was unsuccessful—we hope it will be renewed, this winter, with a more pleasing result.—The Commissioners of our county, indeed of every county, and the different literary societies of the State, would find this work a cheap, useful, and convenient repository for reference.—Mr. Robert Patterson is agent for the publisher, and will receive subscriptions.

COLONIZATION.—The meeting of the friends of this noble cause, takes place this evening at six o'clock, at the First Presbyterian Church. It is expected that some interesting addresses will be delivered by different gentlemen. We trust general attendance will be given, and that our fellow citizens will take this opportunity to make a public manifestation of their approval of this great, benevolent, and praiseworthy undertaking.—We hope that the enemies of this noblest plan of charity and benevolence ever conceived by man, will have no cause to chuckle at the thinness of the meeting, or at any evidence of the want of zeal or earnestness in those who assemble there.—We know not what means may be proposed for the consideration and adoption of the meeting, but trust that wisdom and honesty of purpose will govern the deliberations of the evening, and that whatever is decided upon may be pursued with energy, zeal, and untiring perseverance.

For the Gazette.

PHENOMENON.

Many of our political editors, without distinction of party, either are, or pretend to be, well pleased with the late law regulating our city elections.—This is truly a political phenomenon; and, had it occurred a few weeks since, our citizens would have been not in the least astonished at the great phenomenon mentioned in many of our papers.—You are now running together a short race—do not fight in the crucible.—What!—Sutton, Snowden, Johns, and Phillips agree?—'Tis strange, very strange.—We must believe it.

The writer of the above paragraph seems greatly amazed at the running together of the four opposite elements of the political world, in Pittsburgh. He might have added our name to the others, as we do heartily approve the main provisions of the new law. The provision, that the elections for each ward should be held within the bounds of the respective wards, is one for which we have always contended.

Another leading provision in the bill, is, that the Mayor shall be chosen by the people, from among the whole body of the people, and not be confined to the Board of Aldermen. This is a truly republican feature in the law, and, as such, we of course approve it.

While we thus approve the main features of the bill, we do not, in that spirit of sycophancy and servility which characterizes the Mercury, declare it to be clear, perspicuous, and unambiguous. It was evidently drawn up in haste—there is, for instance, no plan pointed out for ascertaining the aggregate vote for mayor—no persons are named who shall meet together from the different wards to ascertain the aggregate vote—no time is mentioned when this shall be done; whether on the night of the election, the day after, or ten days after—no place is mentioned where they shall assemble—no form of certificate for the result of the vote for Mayor in each ward, and no person named to sign the certificate. There is no provision to compel any person to certify—and, if certificates should be made out there is no provision to compel any person to return them.—If the officers holding the election in any ward, should be dissatisfied with the result, in that ward, they may safely imitate the conduct of the Jackson Sheriff, in Letcher's District, in Kentucky.—The provisions of the act of the 15th February, 1799, to regulate the general elections, certainly do not apply to a municipal election—Still we are pleased with the general features of the law, and the spirit which dictated it.

PUBLIC MEETING.

Pursuant to public notice, a large and respectable number of the citizens of Pittsburgh, opposed to secret societies, assembled at the Hotel of Mr. Wray, in Fourth street, on Saturday, the 28th of December, at seven o'clock, P. M., for the purpose of adopting measures preparatory to the approaching city elections.

The meeting having been duly organized, by calling DAVID M'KEE, Esq., to the Chair, and appointing SAMUEL ROSEBURGH Secretary, it was, upon motion of William W. Irwin, Esq., unanimously

Resolved, That this meeting do now proceed to the nomination of a suitable candidate for the office of Mayor of the city of Pittsburgh.

The names of a number of gentlemen were then offered to the meeting for nomination, and the vote having been taken, by marking, the chairman announced that CORNELIUS DARRAGH, Esq., having received a majority of the whole number of votes, was duly nominated the candidate for the office of Mayor.

The following resolutions were then unanimously adopted by the meeting.

Resolved, That an Executive Committee be appointed, for the ensuing year, which shall have power to call meetings, appoint committees of correspondence and vigilance for the city—fill vacancies in their own number, or that may occur amongst the antimasonic candidates for the several municipal offices, and generally devise measures calculated to advance the cause of antimasonry.

Resolved, That the said committee be authorized to select suitable candidates to be supported by the antimasonic party at the approaching election for members of the Select and Common Councils, and that they report the names of said candidates for the consideration of the antimasonic party at an adjourned meeting, to be held at Mr. Wray's Hotel, on Wednesday, the 8th of January, at 7 o'clock, P. M.

And the following gentlemen were unanimously chosen to be the Executive Committee:

Christopher Magee, John Leech, James Marshall, Andrew Watson, John F. Greer, Alfred Sutton, Thomas Liggett, Samuel Stackhouse, James H. M'Clelland, Samuel Roseburgh, John M'Faden, William W. Irwin, David M'Kee, and John R. Roseburgh.

On motion of Mr. Moore,

Resolved, That the editors of newspapers in Pittsburgh are requested to publish the proceedings of this meeting.

It was then, upon motion of Mr. M'Fadden,

Resolved, That this meeting do now adjourn, to meet again on Wednesday, the 8th day of January next, at 8 o'clock, P. M.

And thereupon the meeting adjourned.

HISTORY OF THE HARTFORD CONVENTION.

This work, which was announced some months ago as forthcoming, has made its appearance, and will fully justify, we think, any proper expectations that may have been formed of it. If, however, any person has indulged the anticipation that it would disclose any secret conspiracies, or untold treasons, he will be sadly disappointed. It was not in the power of the Secretary to develope the criminal designs of that body, for none such existed; but he has given a faithful narrative of its doings—a compendious but true account of the causes which led to its formation, and a brief sketch of the salutary results that are fairly ascribed to it.

Any man who feels disposed to cast off the harness of party, and to instruct his judgment by the history of past events, will do well to consult this volume. He will find it to contain a well digested review of the prominent topics in our political history, from the formation of our government down to the period of the Hartford Convention which closed its sittings on the 5th of January, 1815. The political course of Mr. Jefferson necessarily occupies, from the nature of the work, a large portion of the author's research. He proves, from incontestible evidence, that the politician whom it has been the fashion of the times almost to adore, was not only unfriendly to the Constitution of the U. States, but that he was a vilifier of Washington, and when detected in aspersions upon his character, resorted to all the artifices of tergiversation to evade the charge.

To Mr. Jefferson should undoubtedly be conceded the quality of patriotism. He loved his country, and sought to promote its prosperity.—But he was ambitious—envious of rivals—unscrupulous in the means adopted to attain his ends—and often guilty of the most flagrant inconsistency and dissimulation. It is not necessary to appeal to Mr. Dwight's book in evidence of these facts; they are abundantly evident from the Memoirs published by his grandson. Having resided in France during several years of the revolutionary period, in that country Mr. Jefferson became deeply imbibed with its principles, both political and religious. From his return to America, down to the close of his administration, his partialities for France, and his hostility to England, were manifest, and gave a deep tinge to his administration of the government. His successor, Mr. Madison, followed up the line of policy which Mr. Jefferson had marked out—and, by a series of measures, conceived in the same spirit, finally involved the nation in war. The negotiations that preceded it—and the pretexts made use of by our government, leading to the final result, are succinctly, but ably, delineated by the author. The author recites, and not without the expression of just indignation, the "Henry affair," as it has been called, in which $50,000 were lavished upon a vagabond informer, for the double purpose of increasing the excitement against England, and at the same time of bringing discredit upon the leading men of New England; and this, too, notwithstanding the miscreant had nothing further to divulge, than that he had been employed as an Emissary by Sir James Craig, of Canada, and that he had wholly failed of success in his mission.

The years that have passed away since the administration of Mr. Madison, his early and patriotic labors, and the amiable character in private life which he unquestionably sustains, have led us to believe that, in most of the exceptionable measures referred to by Mr. Dwight, and which formed the basis of his administration, he was drawn into a vortex from which he could not escape, by the tortuous policy of his predecessor. The "Henry affair," however, is, and ever must be, a blot upon his administration, and such is our veneration for the character of this amiable man, that we fervently wish the whole transaction could be erased from the page of history.

It is shown by the author, beyond all controversy, that the measures adopted by the government towards the New England states, after the war had been declared, were partial, arbitrary, and unjust. The President was authorized by an act of Congress to cause to be levied one hundred thousand men of the militia, officers included, of the respective states. In carrying into effect the power thus conferred, orders were issued through General Dearborn, for the quotas of Massachusetts and Connecticut to be placed under the officers of the United States—and those, too, of an inferior grade to the command of the entire requisitions. In other words—militia were to be converted into a regular soldiery—liable to perform garrison duty, and to be marched wherever the United States officer might be pleased to direct—and withdraw from those services which the constitution enumerated, to the operation of offensive warfare.—Their own coasts might be left unprotected, and their homes invaded, whilst their natural defenders were engaged in prosecuting hostilities on the northern frontier or elsewhere. The conscription bill was another source of just complaint; but more perhaps than all, the destruction of their commerce, and the levying of onerous direct taxes, the avails of which were applied to the carrying on offensive war against Canada, whilst their own coasts, for the distance of more than seven hundred miles, were left wholly at the mercy of the enemy.

It was for these causes, mainly, that the Legislatures of Massachusetts, Rhode Island, and Connecticut, respectively chose delegates to the Hartford Convention, binding them, by the terms of the authority under which they were to act, to the adoption of such measures only as were consistent with their obligations as members of the National Union.

That this much abused body did act within the strict letter of their instructions—and that they never meditated nor committed, directly or indirectly, any act inconsistent with their obligations as members of the National Union, is abundantly manifest, from the pages before us. If there be truth in history, or candor in man, the members of the Hartford Convention will not only be rescued from contumely, but awarded a high and honorable place in the Temple of Fame. We have only to repeat, in conclusion, what we have ever maintained, that the Hartford Convention was one of the ablest and most patriotic bodies that ever convened in this country—composed of men of sound heads and pure hearts. With several of them we have had the honor of personal acquaintance, and have never doubted that they were incapable of any act incompatible with duty and honor.

Mr. Dwight, we think, is deserving of great credit for the fidelity with which he has related the facts of the case, and the research by which the reader is enabled to trace the connection between the political history of the country with that of the Hartford Convention—so as to leave no doubt of the causes which produced—the patriotism which animated—and the valuable results which flowed from it.

THE PERMANENCE OF WORDS.

An eloquent, but extravagant writer has hazarded the assertion, that "words are the only things that last for ever."* Nor is this merely a splendid saying, or a startling paradox, that may be qualified by explanation into commonplace: but with respect to man, and his works on earth, it is literally true. Temples and palaces, amphitheatres and catacombs—monuments of power, and magnificence, and skill, to perpetuate the memory, and preserve even the ashes of those who lived in past ages—must, in the revolutions of mundane events, not only perish themselves, by violence or decay, but the very dust in which they perished be so scattered as to leave no trace of their material existence behind. There is no security beyond the passing moment for the most permanent, or the most precious of these; they are as much in jeopardy as ever, after having escaped the changes and chances of thousands of years. An earthquake may suddenly ingulf the pyramids of Egypt, and leave the sand of the desert as blank as the tide would have left it on the sea shore. A hammer, in the hand of an idiot, may break to pieces the Apollo Belvidere, or the Venus de'Medici, which are scarcely less worshipped as miracles of art in our day than they were by idolaters of old as representatives of deities.

Looking abroad over the whole world, after the lapse past of nearly six thousand years, what have we of the past but the words in which its history is recorded? What besides a few mouldering and brittle ruins, which time is imperceptibly touching down into dust—what, besides these, remains of the glory, the grandeur, the intelligence, the supremacy of the Grecian republics, or the empire of Rome? Nothing but the words of poets, historians, philosophers, and orators, who being dead yet speak, and in their immortal works still maintain their dominion over inferior minds through all posterity. And these intellectual sovereigns not only govern our spirits from the tomb by the power of their thoughts, but their very voices are heard by our living ears in the accents of their mother tongues. The beauty, the eloquence, and art of these collocations of sounds and syllables the learned alone can appreciate, and that only, (in some cases) after long, intense, and laborious investigation; but as thought can be made to transmigrate from one body of words into another, even thro' all the languages of the earth, without losing what may be called its personal identity—the great minds of antiquity continue to hold their ascendency over the opinions, manners, characters, institutions, and events of all ages and nations thro' which their posthumous compositions have found their way, and been made the earliest subjects of study, the highest standards of morals, and the most perfect examples of taste, to the master minds, in every state of civilized society. In this respect, the "words" of inspired prophets and apostles among the Jews, and those of gifted writers among the ancient Gentiles, may truly be said to "last for ever."

Words are the vehicles by which thought is made visible to the eye, audible to the ear, and intelligible to the mind of another; they are the palpable forms of ideas, without which these would be intangible as the spirit that conceives or the breath that would utter them. And of such influence is speech or writing, as the conductor of thought, that, though all words do not "last for ever," and it is well for the peace of the world, and the happiness of individuals, that they do not,—yet even here every word has its date and its effect; so that with the tongue or the pen we are continually doing good or evil to ourselves or our neighbors. On a single phrase expressed in anger or affection, in levity or seriousness, the whole progress of a human spirit through life—perhaps even to eternity—may be changed from the direction which it was pursuing, whether right or wrong. For in nothing is the power and indestructibility of words more signally exemplified than in small compositions, such as stories, essays, parables, songs, proverbs, and all the minor and more exquisite forms of composition. It is a fact, not obvious perhaps, but capable of perfect proof, that knowledge, in all eras which have been distinguished as enlightened, has been propagated more by tracts than by volumes.—We need but appeal, in evidence of this, to the state of learning in our own land at the present day, when all classes of people are more or less instructed.—On this point I shall have a future opportunity of expatiating, & will therefore, at present, offer only two examples of the prominence of words, involving sacred or important truth, of equal value and application, in all periods and countries, and among all people, to whom they may be delivered.

In the youth of the Roman commonwealth, during a quarrel between the patricians and plebeians, when the latter had separated themselves from the former, on the plea that they would no longer labor to maintain the unproductive class in indolent luxury, Menenius Agrippa, by the well known fable of a schism in the human body, in which the limbs mutinied against the stomach, brought the seceders to a sense of their duty and interest, and reconciled a feud which, had it been further inflamed, might have destroyed the state, and turned the history of the world into a new channel, by interrupting the tide of events which were carrying Rome to the summit of dominion. The lesson which that sagacious patriot taught his countrymen and contemporaries, he taught to all generations to come. His fable has already, by more than a thousand years, survived the empire which it rescued from premature destruction.

The other instance of a small form of words, in which dwells not an immortal only, but a divine spirit, is that prayer which our Savior taught his disciples. How many millions and millions of times has that prayer been preferred by Christians of all denominations! So wide, indeed, is the sound thereof gone forth, that daily, and almost without intermission, from the ends of the earth, and afar off upon the sea, it is ascending to heaven like incense and a pure offering; nor needs it the gift of prophesy to foretel, that though "heaven and earth shall pass away," these words of our blessed Lord "shall not pass away," till every petition in it has been answered—till the kingdom of God shall come, and his will be done on earth as it is in heaven.

NEW YORK, December 25.

Public Deposits.—We learn that a meeting of the Board of Trade, which is composed of a large body of our most respectable merchants, is called for Thursday evening, to take into consideration the state of the Money Market, as connected with the removal of the Public Deposits, and it is intended that some expression will be made by that body on this important subject.

The discharge of Lieutenant Randolph from custody, at Richmond, is justly considered as a rebuke of the conduct of the Treasury Department in his arrest. Personal malice was the motive at Washington. The Richmond Compiler, of Monday last, contains the Opinions of Chief Justice Marshall and Judge Barbour in the case. The following are the concluding sentences of the Chief Justice.

"If I am correct in saying that this summary process can be used only to coerce the payment of the sum actually due, not to coerce the payment of more than is due, that such controverted question ought to be decided in a court of justice, then this warrant has been issued in a case which the law does not authorize, in a case which ought to have been submitted to a court of justice.

"On both these points I am of opinion that the agent of the Treasury has exceeded the authority given by law, and consequently that the imprisonment is illegal."

The country may rejoice, indeed, that it has yet an independent and firm judiciary.—Nat. Gaz.

A slip from the Richmond Compiler, of Saturday, 2 P. M., says—"The decision of the Court was received by the crowd in attendance with the most evident delight. Even the respect for the Court, and the veneration which is felt by every individual in the community for the distinguished individual who sits as its presiding Judge, could not suppress an outward and noisy demonstration of the gratification of the audience."

Mr. Webb, in the New York Courier of yesterday, says—"When we left Washington, on Thursday last, it was well understood that although the question had not yet been referred to the Committee of Ways and Means, Kendall and Cambreleng had been industriously employed in preparing a report adverse to the Bank, and justifying the Secretary in the removal of the Deposits.

The whole subject is now, no doubt, before the Committee, and as Messrs. Camberleng and Kendall commenced their labors at least two weeks ago, there is good reason to anticipate that their report will be made by the middle of January.

The question will then come regulary for discussion before the House, and we now predict that after a warm and protracted debate, the House of Representatives will direct all future Deposits of Government funds to be made in the Bank of the United States!—This will of course be concurred in by the Senate, and the question then arises—will the Executive presume to veto such joint resolutions, and claim to exercise an unlimited control over the purse of the country, in defiance of the express legislation of Congress?"

Lieut. Randolph, brought up on a habeas corpus, has been discharged from confinement, by Judges, Marshall, and Barbour. It will be recollected that he was arrested, and imprisoned, by order of the Treasury Department, for a debt alleged to be due to the U. States. The opinion of the Court, we presume, will be published in a few days, in the Richmond papers.

The following is from the Norfolk Herald, received yesterday.—Balt Chron. Dec. 25.

"LIEUTENANT RANDOLPH.—A friend in the Legislature writes us that Lieut. Randolph was discharged on Saturday. The opinion of the Court was delivered at 12 o'clock. Our correspondent understood from a gentleman who was present, that the venerable Chief Justice, in giving his opinion, remarked—"That as the constitutionality of the law of 1820, under which the distress warrant was issued, had been made a point in the case, he felt himself bound to say, that he thought the law unconstitutional; but that the case would go off on three points not connected with the constitutional question."

1st. That Randolph was not an officer within the meaning and intention of the law of 1820, being only an acting purser.

2d. That an account which has been settled by one Auditor cannot be opened by his successor.—Randolph had a final settlement with Watkins, and Kendall afterwards had opened the account.

3d. That a distress warrant should not be issued upon a disputed case in the settlement of accounts, but only when a balance due was withheld."

Movement in Virginia.—We find the following notice in the Richmond Compiler of the 24th inst. We have no doubt that similar meetings will be promptly held in other sections of the country.—Phil. Com. Herald.

"The citizens of Richmond and Manchester, who disapprove the removal of the deposits, and are disposed to co-operate in measures to relieve the existing public distress, are requested to assemble at the Capitol, on Thursday evening, at 5 o'clock, at the ringing of the bell at the Barracks."

Mr. Strong has purchased Mr. Roberts' half of the Pennsylvania Intelligencer office, and become sole proprietor. In his expose of his political course he says he will support the masonic Jackson "National, State, and County nominations." "It will look rather queer," as the Yankees say, to see our neighbor, who has so valiantly fought "the old hero" for the last eight years, "knock under," wheel in, and, taking shelter under his wing, turn his battery upon his old friends and old principles. But as queer things have happened before, and although we cannot approve his political course, still we wish him every pecuniary success.—Penn. Tel.

The Pennsylvania Reporter Office, we learn, from good authority, is sold to Mr. Packer, editor of the Lycoming Gazette, and Mr. David Small, of this place, Mr. Welsh having an appointment at command under the Clerk of the House of Representatives at Washington city. Mr. Packer is the man who published the notorious forged letter against Mr. Ritner, during the last gubernatorial election. When he takes his seat in the editorial chair here, we shall hope to see a fair and full explanation of that transaction, that whatever taint or blame attaches to him, in that affair, may be horoughly washed off.—Pennsylvania Tel.

The Infant Queens.—A foreign Journal thus remarks on the similarity of the condition of the Infant Queens of Spain and Portugal. It is indeed most singular:

"The position of the two Queens of the Spanish Peninsula is not a little singular; they are both minors—both under Regencies—both opposed by their uncles, in arms, to change the line of succession, and they are both supported by the people, who expect to enjoy, under their reign, a constitutional government, against bigots or fanatics, hostile to all improvement. The similarity of their conditions naturally begets sympathy of political feeling, and a firm community of political interests. May they succeed alike!"

Reid on the Psalms.—This work, the prospectus of which we published some time since, entitled "Helps to Christian Devotion, consisting of Dissertations on the Psalms, by Robert Reid, A. M., Minister of the Gospel, in Erie, Pennsylvania," is now ready for delivery to subscribers, and for sale, at the price of one dollar. It is a handsome duodecimo volume, of 360 pages. From a careful perusal, we hesitate not to recommend it as an interesting and valuable commentary on the Psalms, and well worthy the attention of the christian community. The author is well known as a good writer, a ripe scholar, and a profound theologian. The present work, we doubt not, will add to his already well established reputation. To the citizens of this county we would add another recommendation. It is an entire home production. It was written here, the paper manufactured here, printed here, and bound here. It has, however, higher claims to their attention.—It is a work of sterling merit. It can be procured at the Bookstore of Oliver Spafford, and at this Office.—Erie Gazette, Dec. 26.

DIED,

In this county, on Sunday last, General DANIEL BISSELL.—St. Louis Republican, Dec. 16.

A Treasury order, for £8,000, had been presented to Captain Ross, for his discoveries in the north pole; also, the Royal Medal, (50 guineas.)

We find, in a late London Magazine, the following paragraph, translated from the 'Revue Medicale.'

"When all other means fail in arresting hæmorrhage, a little oil of tobacco has immediately succeeded. That which collects in the stems of pipes which have been long smoked will answer perfectly. The discovery was made by Humel, a chemist at Berlin, and his mixture is—eight ounces of distilled water, two drachms of oil of tobacco, and a few drops of ethereal animal oil. This has been found so effectual, that by a recent decree of the Minister of the Interior at Munich, all apothecaries are ordered to keep it prepared."

FAIRBANK'S PLATFORM SCALES.

THESE scales are constructed upon an improved principle; are fitted up with great care by the manufacturers, and warranted to weigh with accuracy from half a pound to 12,000. Being placed in and forming part of, the floor, the process of weighing is performed with ease and facility, while the space they occupy may be improved as a passage way or for other purposes.

The construction of these scales is such that they are little liable to derangement of wear, and their perfect operation will be guaranteed for any reasonable length of time.

The usual objection, that a new method of weighing cannot be safely entrusted to unskilful hands, is obviated by the use of the improved BALANCE, concerning which are the following remarks in the Journal of the Franklin Institute, of the state of Pennsylvania, for the promotion of the Mechanic Arts, for June, 1833. (Edited by Thos. P. Jones, M. D., late Superintendent of the Patent Office, at Washington, Professor of Mechanics in the Franklin Institute, &c.

"The Messrs. Fairbanks, some time since, obtained a patent for a Platform Weighing Machine, and this mode of adjuating and graduating the Beam of the Balance, and the weights, was devised by them with a view to its employment with the before mentioned machine. We have had an opportunity of examining one of their balances, and have been much pleased with it: this examination, however, was not necessary to the conviction that it possesses a just claim to the character of a real improvement, the whole arrangement being so simple as to enable any person to perceive that it is well adapted to the purpose contemplated, that of facilitating the business of weighing, and more especially of heavy articles."

The subscriber, as Agent, will receive orders for the above Scales, which will be made in this city to order. They can be seen at his Warehouse, No. 84, Front street.

Nov. 8, 1833. MOSES ATWOOD.

SALE OF REAL ESTATE.

THE Subscribers, Trustees of the New Philadelphia Society, at Phillipsburgh, Beaver county, Pennsylvania, offer for sale the following property, to wit:

1	tract of land containing		330 acres
1	do	do	330
1	do	do	67
1	do	do	7
1	do	do	40
other lots, containing about			6

The above lands lie in one body, fronting about two miles upon the Ohio river—immediately opposite the mouth of Big Beaver creek, and the Beaver Division of the Pennsylvania Canal. The land is rich, and a part of it under a high state of cultivation—its location pleasant and healthy. The improvements upon the same are valuable, including the town of Phillipsburgh, late the residence of Count Leon, and the New Philadelphia Society. The town contains about 40 Dwelling Houses, now in order; some of them brick houses and two stories high. A large and spacious Hotel, a Store house, Church, a number of Shops, for mechanics, Stables, Barns, and other out houses. Also, two large new buildings, lately erected, but not yet finished, one of brick, the other of frame (the latter suitable for a manufactory) a very extensive public garden, and also fruit trees of various kinds. The property has also attached to it the right of a ferry across the Ohio, which is valuable, and becoming more so every day.

The above property is situated in the midst of a wealthy and prosperous country, distant about 28 miles below Pittsburgh, and one mile from Beaver, the seat of justice for Beaver county---and having a view for many miles up and down the Ohio, and of the country to a great distance around.

The subscribers are confident in saying that few situations could be found, presenting greater facilities to the farmer, mechanic, the manufacturer, and others--- a soil rich and productive---the neighborhood abounding in coal---well timbered and watered, and, by means of the Pennsylvania Canal, and steamboat navigation, a cheap and ready conveyance to market, and a communication with other places is ensured.

The property is susceptible of divisions into farms, or for the location of new towns, or for the extension of the present one.

Should it not be sold on or before the first day of January next, it will then be offered at public sale, upon the premises, to the highest and best bidder.

It will be sold in a body, or in parcels, to suit purchasers.

Terms of sale will be reasonable.

Information can be had by enquiring of the subscribers, two of whom live in the neighborhood, and one on the premises.

DOCTOR ROBERT'S

☞WELCH MEDICAMENTUM.☜

FOR the cure of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints Jaundice, Cholic, Fever and Ague, Dysentery, Headach, Loss of Appetite, Flatulence, Hypochondria, Hysterics, Dropsical Complaints, and Heartburn, It also prevents all Bilious disorders, and removes habitual Costiveness, Asthma, Strangury, Gravel, Rheumatism, Gout, and Impurities of the Blood.

A person who uses this Medicamentum will not require the use of the lancet, or any means of the healing art. It restores and revives the animal spirits, invigorates the system, removes nervous tremors, obtunds rheumatic and anthritic pains, and prevents their return. It cleanses the stomach of all morbid humors, which cause indigestion, acidities, headach, and lowness of spirits; cures all bilious disorders, and all cholics of the stomach and bowels, almost immediately; inspires cheerfulness; gives comfort to the dropsical; takes away palpitation of the heart; gives circulation to the blood; restores bloom to the sallow or sickly cheek, and plumpness to the meagre habit; purges without pain, and banishes all cause of fever of every kind. It acts on the stomach, that great reservoir of the human system, a diseased state of which causes all diseases. No alteration in the usual habits of life is required, but the abstaining from distilled ardent spirits.

CERTIFICATE,

From Rev. Derick Lansing, D. D., Pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church in Utica.

UTICA, Jan. 6, 1830.

To Dr. Hitchcock.—Dear Sir: I have always been one of the number of those who have placed little confidence in nostrums or specifics, and for this reason, although I saw your advertisement of the Welch Medicamentum, I could not bring my mind to consent to use it. My sufferings, from indigestion, during the past summer, were so severe, as materially to affect my comfort, and my capacity for usefulness. I have reason to thank you, sir, that, on hearing of the state of my health, you kindly sent me your Medicamentum. I have taken it faithfully, and with entire success. I have not been visited with one of those turns of distress, which before were weekly periodical, since I began to take your valuable medicine. Could I receive the same relief which I have hitherto experienced, on condition of taking it for life, I should cheerfully comply with such condition. Your's, very truly, D. C. LANSING.

ANTI-DYSPEPTIC ELIXER.

ONE of the most agreeable and efficacious Medicines ever discovered for the permanent cure of those chronic states of derangement of the stomach, constituting that miserable disease called Dyspepsia.

The basis of this Elixer s vegetables, and perfectly innocent in its operation; it destroys that sour state of the stomach, the instant it is taken, and stops the morbid secretion, by giving strength to the muscular fibre of that important organ, by which means the peristaltic motion of the intestines is increased, and the costiveness obviated; a new action is given to the system, which puts an end to a train of distressing nervous sensations.

Another form of the disease in which the Elixer is admirably calculated to relieve, is the decline of fever, where the stomach will not bear the ordinary strengthening medicines indicated in such cases, it has the surprising effect of giving vigor, and restoring the natural secretions of the body, without increasing the febrile state. Not the least danger is to be apprehended from exposure to cold, while under the use of this medicine, nor will it interrupt necessary employment of the patient a single hour.

☞A number of cases of cures performed by the Anti-Dyspeptic Elixer in the vicinity of Pittsburgh can be given.

GEO. W. CARPENTER'S

COMPOUND SYRUP OF LIVERWORT,

A SAFE and Valuable Medicine for Coughs, Spitting of Blood, Consumption, and Liver Complaints.

Most of the medicines made use of for the above diseases are of a stimulating nature, composed generally of Resins and Balsams, in alcoholic solutions, which, although sometimes givingt emporary relief, in almost every instance where they are freely used, aggravate the disease, and reduce the strength of the patient.

This article possesses superior advantages over these preparations, its action being of a tonic, invigorating and strengthening nature, thus overcoming the disease by promoting expectoration, and gradully increasing the strength of the patient, and thus, without being attended with any unpleasant effects: it also agrees with the stomach, in a cases, and is a pleasant medicine to take.

TYPE FOUNDRY.

HAVING purchased of Mr. Richard Ronaldson, his long established and very extensive Type Foundry, the subscribers have formed a co-partnership for the purpose of continuing said business, and for the convenience of their friends and patrons, have removed their establishment to a more central part of the city. As it is their intention to keep on hand a good assortment of the best type, and to make such additions and improvements as the taste of the trade and the wants of the country require, they flatter themselves that this establishment will merit a large share of patronage. They have now several founts on hand, which can be furnished at a few hours' notice, and are prepared to make founts of all weights and sizes, from Pearl to 22 lines Pica, including a variety of Ornamental Letter. Their assortment of Cuts, Dashes, Brass Rule, and other Ornaments, will be found to be very extensive, of which specimens will be forwarded to Printers as soon as they can be prepared.

Printing Presses of every description, Printing Ink of the most approved qualities, Composing Sticks, Brass and Common Galleys, Chases, Imposing Stones, Cases, Paper and Press Boards, Standing Presses, Furniture, together with a complete assortment of all articles used in a Printing Office, will be kept constantly on hand.

Small founts, suitable for Book Binders, in great variety, may be had when called for.

Orders from all parts in the Union will be promptly and most carefully attended to, and particularly in supplying sorts for all founts furnished by their predecessors, Binny & Ronaldson, and Richard Ronaldson.

PATENT PLANING MACHINE.—The right to use this valuable machine, invented and patented by William Woodworth, and known as Woodworth's Patent Planing Machine, may be obtained on application to the subscriber for the counties of Allegheny, Butler, Beaver, Washington, Green, Fayette, Somerset, Cambria, Indiana, Jefferson, Clearfield, M'Kean, Warren, Venango, Mercer, Crawford, and Erie, in the State of Pennsylvania. That part of Maryland lying west of the Blue Ridge; all that part of Virginia lying west of the Blue Ridge, except the county of Ohio. The whole of the state of Ohio except the counties of Hamilton, Butler, and Montgomery. The whole of the state of Kentucky, except the counties of Jefferson, Boone, Oldham, Gallatin, and Campbell. The whole of Indiana, except the counties of Floyd, Clark, Jefferson, Dearborn, and Switzerland. The whole of the state of Illinois, and the territory of Michigan. Rights to use the machine in that part of the United States, named above, will be sold by the single county or in larger districts. As it is presumed that no one will purchase without seeing the machine at work, a description of it is deemed unnecessary. Should any person, however, wish to purchase, and find it inconvenient to visit the places where it is in operation, a machine will be furnished, warranted to plane, tongue and groove, and bring to an exact width and thickness, a white pine board of 12 feet long, and of any width from 1 to 14 inches, in one minute and ten seconds, or an oak board of the same dimensions in 2 minutes and 10 seconds. Machines may be seen at work in the cities of New Orleans, Washington, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, and others at the south and east, at Wheeling, Virginia, and at the saw mill of Messrs. Irwin & Herron, in this city.

Persons desiring to purchase will have the certificates of scientific and practical men who have seen it at work, in the different places in which it has been put up, forwarded to them. They give their opinion as to the great value of the invention, state the time they have seen boards dressed by this machine, and describe the quality of the work as compared with that performed by hand labor.
